MINDS IN THE MAKING

TRIAGE In-Service Teacher Form

Team Researchers in a GLOBE-al Environment (TRIAGE) is an after-school, extra-curricular program, focusing on authentic research with middle school students and their teachers.

- I understand that, as an In-Service teacher, I play a key role in the team research process at the Bunker Interpretive Center (BIC) and in the collaboration with the Formal Education Partners.
- My role as a participant in TRIAGE extends to participation in professional development outside of the time I spend at the BIC; I understand that I will need to participate in online discussions and curriculum modification under the guidance of the professional development staff of TRIAGE.
- I am further responsible for the motivation and retention of the students from my school and am committing to help maintain communication and encouragement to retain those students in the TRIAGE program.
- I realize that this will require my attention and effort over the course of one CALENDAR year (i.e., from January, 2008 through December, 2008).
- While I understand that there is inherent flexibility with regard to scheduling (particularly as emergencies arise), I am committing to approximately 2.5 hours after school on the following day:

MONDAY TUESDAY WEDNESDAY THURSDAY NONE

Finally, I understand that this is a paid position for which I will receive $25/hour, up to 50 hours (including time at the Bunker Interpretive Center, time spent in traditional professional development, and time spent engaged in professional development discussion online, per the TRIAGE professional development staff agenda). I understand that I will need to distribute my 50 hours of participation such that I am regularly involved with the students teams from January, 2008 through December, 2008 (except summer!); I will plan my time accordingly. When I am unable to participate on my committed day(s), I will do my best to arrange for an alternate or to job-share with another in-service teacher in my district.
